for Students

KOKKOLA

Kokkola is the administrative, financial and cultural centre of the Central Ostrobothnia region.

The city of Kokkola was founded in 1620 by King Gustav II Adolf of Sweden. It is said that the town's Finnish name, Kokkola, may originate from the name Kokkolahti (Kokko bay).

It was the name of the bay which pushed in from the sea, all the way to Kirkonmäki (church hill). According to the legend, eagles (kokko or kotka in Finnish) used to sit on large rocks in the bay.

In the earliest documents, the town's name is Karlabi, the name behind its present-day Swedish name, Karleby.
